

Preludio

A brand new variety in the Vitalis assortment!

Preludio is a very early variety with superior field holding capacity and bolting tolerance. Bulbs form as soon as two weeks earlier than other hybrid varieties on the market.

Extra-large, rounded bulbs have a smooth white exterior surface and excellent internal quality. Expect high yields of uniform, highly marketable bulbs.

Plants are easy to manage, with compact, upright tops and well-filled stems that resist breaking. Good vigor and overall plant health with strong tolerance to tipburn. Bulb-to-taproot attachment is narrow, proving a smaller than average cutting surface for easy harvest.

This early-maturing hybrid is recommended for spring and early summer harvest but may be successfully harvested into early fall in northern and cooler climates.

MATURITY	65-75 Days from Transplant
HARVEST PERIOD	All Regions - Spring
HARVEST PERIOD	Northern Regions & Temperate Climates - Spring, Summer, Fall
